LEADING ORGANIZATIONS PREPARED FOR EFFECTS OF HOSTILE LEGISLATION.

Coney Island and Brooklyn Jockey Clubs Announc that All Stakes Closed Will Be Run

Off in Any Event.

New York, February 5 .- Positive assurances were made today by representatives of the leading and most popular racing associations about New York City that there would be racing in the east this n, no matter what legislation might be passed at Albany, and that the great stake fixtures already closed would be run and the prizes paid to the win

This is the first authoritatve statement that ha been made by the racing associations and is of vast interest to horsemen as well as the general public.

The two chiefs of associations who spoke were J. H. Bradford of the Coney Island Jockey Club, and Phil J. Dwyer of the Brooklyn Jockey Club and Queens County Jockey Club. It is practically certain that the Westchester, Brighton Beach, Metropolitan and others will act in accordance with who have already announced their intentions in the event that the anti-racing bills are passed which is not conceded here, although it is though there will be a strong fight on the matter.

The attitude assumed by the two oldest and most prosperous racing clubs is expected to encourage the lesser clubs, and among racing men the view entertained generally is that even should the racing law be changed, as recommended by Governor Hughes, there will still be racing in New York in the coming season, although under changed conditions

J. R. Bradford, one of the original members and officers of the Coney Island Jockey Club, the oldest racing organization in the state, with a history reaching back twenty-eight years, and the most prosperous turf organization in American racing.

"The Coney Island Jockey Club is prepared and decided to meet every obligation it has made. We cannot know what may be done in the matter of changes in the law, but while we hope for the best, I can speak for the Coney Island Jockey Club in saying that we will have racing and that our stakes will be run, as the club has agreed in closing We may be compelled to submit to loss, but that remains to be determined.

"If there is loss from the attendance under a possible change in the laws governing racing, we are prepared to stand it, but it is my conviction public sentiment will soon cause another change, and that a great popular sport will be preserved to the people. The Coney Island Jockey Club is ready to do its full part for the successful continuance of racing, and every agreement that the club has made in the stakes that have been closed will be met to the satisfaction of horsemen and the public in any contingency."

J. Dwyer, president of the Brooklyn Phillip Jockey Club since its organization twenty-two years Queens County Jockey Club

We will run off our stakes whatever happens Racing may be under changed conditions this seasor and the Queens County Jockey Club will meet its obligations in the stakes that have been announced to close. We have decided on this and will run off the races that already have been provided even if we have to run three stakes a day. Brooklyn Jockey Club has been prosperous for many years and that club can afford to take the risks a the Coney Island Jockey Club can, but the possible change in the law governing racing unquestionably means much to the racing clubs of New York.

The Brooklyn Jockey Club cannot hope to give the big stakes that have been offered and to tinue racing unless the popularity of the sport and the attendance keep up as in the past and it the question of whether this attendance will con tinue should too many restrictions be put on people who patronize the sport. In this prospective experiment of racing under new conditions the Aqueduct track of the Queens County Jockey Club, coming first on the list of races, will be compelled to bear the brunt of the trial, but as we have made uncements, we shall hold to them, and if law is changed, the Aqueduct meeting will let us know what to expect.

'It probably may be an expensive experiment if the governor secures the legislation that he seems to want, absolutely prohibiting betting of all sorts on the race course, but we are determined to try it in the course of keeping our obligations in stakes and in the hope that even should we have an unfavorable law for the coming season, may be bettered when another legislature meets.

HOSTILE TO KENTUCKY RACING COMMISSION.

Frankfort, Ky., February 5 .- Senator H. S. Mc of Louisville, yesterday introduced a bill in the Kentucky legislature providing for the abolishment of the State Racing Commission. A bill was introduced in the senate today which seeks prohibit betting on horse races at any track in the state.

FAVORITES RULE THE DAY AT OAKLAND. JOCKEY CLUB IN DEFENSE OF RACING. Shenandoah Easily Takes the Main Race of the Afternoon-Blanche C. and Eduardo Fall.

Oakland, Cal., February 5.-The seventy-sixth day of racing of the California Jockey Club's winter meeting of 1907-08 will long be remembered by the local race-going public as a banner day of suc cesses for its choices. The entire card was cap-tured by favorites and at such lucrative odds that it probably establishes a record in that respect. Some heavy plunging was indulged in throughout Shenandoah in the fourth was the heaviest backed norse that has started here on any off day since the "Boots" Durnell, who is enjoying season began. marked prosperity at present, is said to have averaged 6 to 5 for a big wager on the winner. Several of the big layers refused to take the pretentions of the favorite seriously and the ring generally seemed inclined to take liberties with him in the early betting, due to his preceding defeat, and with unusually disastrous financial results.

Shenandoah's impressive manner of winning with Hayes up prompted the stewards to start an investigation into Keogh's ride on the occasion of his bad defeat last Saturday. Trainer W. H. Spence critic ized Keogh's efforts severely at the time and refused to put him up today.

Another thrilling chapter of accidents occurred nearing the finish of the race just referred to. Blanche C. fell in the bog-like going and Eduardo, failing to clear the struggling horse and rider, also fell. For a miracle all four escaped unburt, although it seemed as if the two jockeys, A. Walsh and W. Fischer, must surely be crushed to death, as the borses rolled over them repeatedly.

First-class weather prevailed, which was prob ably the chief contributing factor to attract the big crowd which enjoyed the sport.

KENTUCKY BREEDERS ISSUE AN APPEAL.

Lexington, Ky., February 5.—The situation in New York has aroused the breeders of thorough-breds in Kentucky to unusual activity. A petition, of which the following is a copy, was put in general circulation throughout seven or eight counties today for signatures:
"To the senate, assembly and press of the State of New York:

"'We, breeders and other citizens of the Blue Grass region of Kentucky, do earnestly appeal to you to oppose any legislation detrimental to racing in the state of New York. The fact that New York is the metropolis of our country makes it a natural market for all the best of any product and this, we believe, gives us the right to make this The blue grass section of our state annually sends to the New York market $1,000,000 worth of thoroughbred yearlings and any legislation which would be injurious to racing, would practically and entirely remove this important source of revenue and would depreciate value of our lands fifty per cent. The breeding of thoroughbreds is one of the principal industries of our state. Business is based on annual sales. Business papers are made due and collectable after these sales and the repeal of the Percy-Gray law would be a disaster second to none that might befall our beautiful and famous section of Kentucky.

Copies of this petition have been mailed to bree ers in Tennessee and Virginia with a request that as many signatures as possible be secured. names of many business men, bankers, merchants, doctors, lawyers and other professional being subscribed. In a word it is a case of bread Jouett Shouse, secretary of the Kentucky Breeding Bureau, returned today from New York. He says the situation is critical.

'It is an even money chance from what I was able to learn whether or not the Percy-Gray law will be repealed," said he. "Governor Hughes is putting all his personal strength into the fight for the repeal of the bill and is relegating all other legislation to the back ground. My judgment is however, that good sense will prevail and that the law will not be repealed. The Jockey Club is exerting every influence to present the conditions to people, to make them understand that a repeal law would put the poolroom magnates into the saddle and that they would be able to promote a nefarious traffic unrestrained." "Bub" May arrived today from New Orleans Says he will spend the next two months at home His three horses, Marbles, Please and triot, the latter a two-year-old, are at the local track. May says Nasturtia is the best two-yearold at New Orleans.

BENNET ADDS TWO HORSES TO HIS STABLE.

Los Angeles, Cal., February 5 .- J. A. Bennet was on the warpath today and when he finished had Steel and Lucky Lad in his stable. up Hampass from $600 to $1,500 in the second race and then quit, R. L. Thomas retaining his colt. It was in this race that Bennet claimed Steel from Sam Hildreth, having Orphan Boy running in the race. He bid up Lucky Lad from $400 to $700 and got him.

The poor showing made by Creston in the han dicap caused Judge Hamilton to pull jockey E. Martin over the coals. Old Preen, after many unsuc cessful attempts, finally made good, but was unsupported in the betting. Today was cut-in nineteen books taking stands. The track should be fast for tomorrow's sport.

Striking Points in Reply to Assaults in Effort to Repeal the Percy-Gray Law.

The Jockey Club made public last Monday its defense of racing in the State of New York pamphlet entitled "The Truth About Racing. it is an exhaustive review of the turf as conducted under the provisions of the Percy-Gray law, and a part of it follows:

"Racing needs no apology, nor may this in any manner be assumed to be such. Rather is the aim an explanation of what it is, of its character and its class, of the manner of its conduct, of its absolute necessity if the thoroughbred, and through him the entire horse product of this country, *is to be made of larger worth both to the breeder and the

"Racing is the only medium through which the comparative values of different strains of blood are ascertained. It is the only determinative test whereby breeder and public alike may gain a relatively exact standard. Racing associations contribute their quota to this in the offering of prizes or stakes of many thousands of dollars, and by continuing these stakes or prizes at the same distances and year after year over the same courses it becomes possible for the potency of some parficular strain to assert itself or the mating along some certain scientific lines to prove its value.

opponents of racing in the Empire State have tried for a long time to convince the farming and agricultural communities that in accepting the five per cent tax on the revenues of the racing associations may become parties to an immoral compact. It has been persistently urged by those who would regulate the affairs of others that moneys paid into the state treasury every year and that channel diverted into the pockets through of the farmer came from gambling sources. Nothing could be further from the truth. The $246,000 which has been paid in for distribution in 1908 came as did the appropriations in former years from the gate receipts paid by the leisure loving patrons of clean sport and from the restaurant and program privileges—the open air and warm sunshine giving zest to appetites, while all are eager to know the names and owners of the horses carded for the events of the day.

can be no controversy whatever as to the attitude of the Jockey Club toward betting or wagering in the individual form. It frowns upon it in the one instance, and it antagonizes it in the general form. It has set its face resolutely against any alliance with any speculation which may be incidental to racing, and it has taken effective steps toward the repression of any wagering which may even by reflection be attributed to the presence of racing. It regulates the one so far as it is possible to do so and it utilizes all its efficient competent authority to make Impossible the other.

"Statistics of the season that has gone prove more than words may the success of its endeavors. For example, there were in 1907, the season just past, 1,317 races run on courses in New York state within the jurisdiction of the Jockey Club. Of these 1,317 races, absolutely no information whatever was received on 923 of them in poolrooms, thus making the laying of odds not merely hazardous to the poolroom proprietors, but extremely unvoluntary and effective campaign was that the poolrooms suffered tremendously and in many instances went out of existence entirely.

"Nothing better illustrates the effectiveness of this work voluntarily done than the recent and the present conditions existing. While racing was going on in New York, there was in reality comparatively little being done in the way of gambling the poolrooms. Their number was cut down nearly seventy per cent. and the volume of their business decreased by nearly twenty per cent, more "Immediately upon the absence of racing in this state, that is, its closing, under the statute on last, wifat were the conditions? The number of poolrooms nearly trebled. Rac ing somewhere was necessary to their sustenance, but not racing in New York, because racing in New York was so guarded that they were unable to obtain prompt and reliable information con-Indeed, it is a matter of notorious knowledge to any person familiar with the sub ject, that every poolroom proprietor in New York state today would welcome any enactment which would make racing here impossible. It would not mean that racing would be abolished all over the country, nor would it mean that men would not on their choices, but it would mean that the restrictions and the embarrassments put forward by the Jockey Club would be eliminated.

"Private wagering or betting, if you will, is an evil which it may be accepted, will be practiced' just so long as the taint of original sin is m men. Regulation is the remedy for this, a regulation which will minimize and restrict prohibition in one state will merely eliminate all that is good and hearty and wholesome in sport without in other states eradicating the evils which it is sought to combat.

'The argument is urged constantly by the enemies of racing that the present racing law is inconsistent; that it permits betting inside the race track enclosure, while betting outside the fence subject to severe punishment. To examine the facts underlying this specious argument is to forthwith establish its fallacy.

STAKE RACE TO SEA SWELL

CELLA'S CRACK YOUNGSTER RUNS AWAY FROM HIS OPPONENTS IN PREMIER STAKES.

Lens Defeats Al Mueller and Hyperion II.—Ananias Takes a Race—Toy Boy a Fast Sprinter -Notter On Four Winners.

New Orleans, La., February 5 .- The running of the Premier Stakes for two-year-olds over a half mile, the longest distance that youngsters have been asked to go this season, was preceded by a cloudburst that quickly converted the track into a muddy state. The darkness accompanying the heavy rain prevented any possibility of distinguishing the colors of the starters with any degree of accuracy until they were within the last hundred yards of the finish. From the outset it appeared as if one of the colts, showing a tremendo of speed, had dashed into a long lead and, holding sway throughout, won eased to a canter. This was Sea Swell, owned by L. A. Cella, and coupled with Marse Abe. His sparkling performance today stamps him the best youngster at the track. Marse Abe was apparently fighting it out hard with the leaders in back of Sea Swell, and near the finish by ing over to the inner rail and impeding Intervene and Brougham, managed to secure second place by a short margin from Intervene, which beat Brough am for third place, when McDaniel eased the latter to keep from going over the fence.

The Cella entry was a prohibitive choice, and their right to first money in the stake was generally conceded long before the race. Servicence and George C. Dillon, originally carded, were withdrawn. but the adding of Dispute, Intervene and John Montgomery swelled the list to seven starters, making the net value of the stake to the winner $1,235. After the rain began coming down hard requests from various owners for permission to withdraw their horses in the remaining races became general, and the scratching of Colloquy, John Carroll, Green Seal, Milshora and Safety Light, which are known to dislike the going, robbed the races they were in of much interest, as they were the logical contenders and expected to be fighting it out with the winners.

The condensed history of the Premier Stakes is as follows:

Donna was easily the best of those that remained in the sixth race, and won as her rider pleased. The poor showing of Flavigny and Beau Brummel resulted in unfavorable comment

Toy Boy, the favorite in the third race, demonstrated that he is entitled to rank with the topnotchers in the sprinting division by maintaining a fast pace throughout and winning easily in fast

John F. Schorr broke into the ranks of winning owners when Ananias, the favorite in the second led his opponents to the finish

The closing race went to the suddenly improved Besterling from John McBride.

Jockey Notter piloted four of the afternoon's winners and his large following reaped a rich har-

Many expected to see McDaniel on Brougham of Chandler on Intervene lodge a claim of foul after the sixth race, but were disappointed. J. Lee was clearly at fault for allowing Marse Abe to crowd the others near the finish.

M. J. Winn departed tonight for Louisville. In two weeks he expects to go to New York to be hand superintending improvements contemplated for the Empire City track, which consist of the building of a field stand, enlargement of the present betting inclosure, and construction of a railroad spur to be used by the New York Central. He will divide his time for the next two months between New York and Louisville, and in June move his family to the metropolis to remain until fall.

Jockey J. Lee was suspended by the starter for five days for disobedience at the post. E. J. Baldwin telegraphed the officials here asking he would be permitted to let jockey George Mountain, who is at present in Los Angele mounts. The judges sent him word that Mountain's case was now out of their hands and that the rider had recently been denied a license by the American Turf Association.

After Gild's defeat last night Burlew & O'Neill disposed of him to C. T. Brownfield for $1,000.

JOCKEY CLUB IN DEFENSE OF RACING.

"We have no law in force which declares betting vicious in itself. One may wager on a card game in his own home or at his club, or may bet on any athletic contest which he attends, without commit ting a crime. On the other hand, he may not maintain or frequent a gambling dive or a poolroom without incurring severe penalty. This wise distinc-tion has been applied by the legislature to racing conditions. With the recognition that human nature would not submit to a proposed total abolition of the instinct of speculation, the racing law con-fines and restricts such betting as is incident to racing (and which is equally incident to every other test of speed or endurance) to certain times and It confines the act of betting to race track inclosures, where a responsible and incorporated association, conducting its operations under state supervision and in a clean and wholesome manner, controls and regulates conduct, preserves order and suppresses and punishes violations of civil and criminal statutes. Obviously there is a vast difference between the act of betting under such con ditions and the same act in a poolroom or gambling

"It is no new principle in law or fact that what may be an offense at one place or at one time may not be at another. Law-making assemblages have embodied similar principles in statutes without number. Under our laws a sale of liquor upon one side of a town line may constitute a crime, yet or the other side be permitted with restrictions; an individual may undress within the confines of his residence, while the same act in the street a few feet distant would render him subject to arrest; a man may freely destroy certain gar e birds and animals upon one side of a territorial line, yet on the other is prohibited from so doing. Like illus-

'Casual examination will show that the present racing law was adopted by the 1895 legislature after exhaustive consideration and debate. The conclusion was then reached, and without doubt wisely, that betting, like intoxication, could not be completely eradicated and that the proper solution of the problem in its relation to racing lay in a regulating and limiting the act and placing it subject to the control and supervision of official The legislature chose this in the place of a drastic law embodying the complete prohibi tion of betting, which experience indicated would have been honored only in its breach. Frequently since 1895 the legislature has refused to alter the statute and it stands today substantially as then That it deals efficiently with the various questions involved may be gathered from the fact that like statutes govern the betting incident to racing in England, Germany and France, where laws to which the 1895 enactment conforms have stood the test and onslaughts of a century.

"Despite the vociferous argument the racing law is constitutional. No lesser a tribunal that the Court of Appeals has so determined more than The federal courts have passed upon the question in the same way. In the face of these decisions, it is difficult to understand any suggestion that the present statute offends constitution. There is a significant fact connected with the cases referred to above. In practically every one of the many actions in which courts of the state have considered and construed the racing law the racing associations interested have been opposed by the Associated Poolroom Proprietors Able and indefatigable counsel have been employed by the poolroom interests in the attempt to proadjudication that the Percy-Gray law was unconstitutional.

"There are in New York State several racing associations, all independent of each other, but working in harmony under the provisions of the Percy-Gray law, and all subject to the rules and regulations of the Jockey Club. This Jockey Club is the paramount body. It consists of fifty members, track cut no figure.

gentlemen prominent in every walk of life. Among them are a number of manufacturers, merchants, brokers, bankers and miners, while others are of the leisure class, all united in the common cause of The Jockey Club elects a board of stewards and these in turn appoint the various officials, assign dates for meetings and conduct the general business of the turf. There is a rac ing commission, appointed by the governor, to grant licenses to the tracks, and there is also operating under the auspices of the Jockey Club a bureau of breeding, inaugurated for the benefit of the farmer, who is being taught by scientific methods to improve his horses by mating cold-blooded mares with the thoroughbred stallions which have been placed for service throughout the state. Already forty-eight of these splendid stallions, many of them veterans of the turf, have been placed in thirty-six counties, while two more are awaiting assignment.

"The Jockey Club in order to encourage the patronage of these horses last year offered premiums at the fairs for weanlings by them, and there is now more than $15,000 of a premium list.

"Now as to the useful side of racing apart from the breeding industry itself. Last year there were in active training on the tracks throughout the country 7,500 thoroughbreds, so near as exacting inquiry has disclosed. The actual aggregate cost for main tenance of these horses was $8,212,500. This represents the usual daily fee at $3, which is the trainer's ordinary compensation for the care, stabling, feed and training of a horse. It does not take into account the special retainers paid to men in charge of large establishments. Of this $8,000,000 more than $4,000,000 returns directly to the farmer for oats, hay, bran, straw and other feed and bedding for the horses, leaving out of calculation entirely that which returns to the agriculturist indirectly through the large army of attendants which the racing industry supports.

"There are other items that mount up into the thousands rapidly and which are dispensed in various directions. There is, for instance, that of transportation. The annual exodus to Saratoga, for example, costs for the horses, exclusive of owners and attendants, not less than $35,000, and special trains probably makes the amount foot up nearly $10,000 more. When racing in New York has ceased there is a migration to Louisiana and to California, and this in cost for the transpor-tation of horses exclusively will reach the total of $175,000 each year. Add to this the fare for owners, trainers and stable hands, for they are not taken free, and to it expenses of shifting from track to track all over the country, and there according to the most reliable and conservative estimate, including the cost of the shipments of yearlings, a sum not far from another half million

"The growth of racing in this state has surely een steady. Operating under the Percy-Gray law and paying one-twentieth of their receipts to the state for distribution to the agriculturalist, vast sums of money have been expended on betterments and improvements of the various courses and many valuable prizes have from year to year been offered for competition, some of them worth to the winner upward of $50,000. Many of these obligations are entered into two years in advance of the day set for the race and any interference with present condi-tions would mean easily a loss of a million dollars in the aggregate by the racing associations.

"There is a moral obligation on the part of the state in this connection. Having surrounded the sport with every safeguard and having every reason to believe in the permanency of the sport, these contracts with horsemen were made in good faith. They will be lived up to, no matter what may be the outcome of the struggle at Albany; but the question which naturally arises in the minds of justice loving persons is: Is it fair to destroy the property of any man or body of men after having encouraged its creation? The racing associations have always thought and are still confident, that they are promoting the sport with due regularity and well within the requirements of the law."

Went to post at 1:53. At post 6 minutes. Start good. Won handly; second and third driving.
Aunt Polly, off well in her stride, displayed the most speed, was taken the shortest route and held the race safe all the way. Jake Ward raced forwardly throughout and, in a sharp last sixteenth drive, finished resolutely. Sir Russell had to go on the outside on the turn for home and, finishing like a shot, would have been second in another stride. Diamond ran well, but was in close quarters next to the rail all of the final sixteenth. The winner was entered for $400; no bid.
